Hamlin's War Bond Drive Ended Saturday, $169,975

In the years to come, readers of the Hamlin Herald will note that in the good year of 1943, when the American people were striving to retain their freedom and help other nations recover from the ravages of International Desperadoes, the people of little Hamlin rallied to the call of duty and purchased $169,975 worth of War Bonds. We say, congratulations, Hamlin.

Where did all that money come from, you ask? The greater part came from the deposits of the mass of small income people, at least that is what most of us want to think. Persons who, from purely patriotic motives, lend their money to the government in such a time of national danger, are the ones who make the bulwark of this nation's strength. So the grand sum of nearly ONE HUNDRED SEVENTY THOUSAND dollars goes to swell the greatest war loan any nation has ever received. The whole nation is to be congratulated, and yet, it has not done its best. Maybe it will never be necessary for our 135 millions of people to do their best. So magnificent a job the United States is doing it sounds to other nations that there is no limit to our capacities. If there are limits, nobody has ever seen them. So the War Bond Drive closes, again, and as the days pass, other purchases will continue, for there can be no better investment than in securities of our national government. A bond is as good as our paper money, or silver or gold.

We do not believe our boys on the foreign battle fronts ever had any uneasiness about how the folks back home would support the government. Also we do not believe they stopped a second to wonder how the coal miners' strike was to come out. They have heard domestic rumblings and some way, some how, our country has always found sensible ears and responding hearts for every call. It is quite possible that many of the soldiers would like to kick a striker in the pants for listening to John L. Lewis, instead of President Roosevelt; and maybe some of them are like their Dads, would like to take a whack at some slackers on the side lines of the struggle. Maybe.

The success of the Second War Bond Drive gives everyone deeper confidence in the ultimate outcome of this war. It means much to the fighting men. It means that on every field of battle our men will go forward, unless outnumbered in men and equipment.

Mrs. Pauline Bryan Page Died Stamford Hospital Wednesday

Mrs. Pauline Reaves Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bryan, who had been in a very serious condition in the Stamford Sanitarium the past thirty days, passed away at 12:40 P. M. Wednesday, May 5th.

The people of Hamlin speak of her as Pauline Bryan, a young lady who came to Hamlin with her parents from Santo, Texas, at the age of eight years, and grew to full womanhood here. She was born at Santo, April 21, 1912, and was 31 years and 14 days of age.

Mrs. Page was a graduate of the Hamlin High school, and later attended the school of nursing in the Stamford Sanitarium, and a Fort Worth school of nursing. She was converted and joined the First Baptist church of Hamlin in her early life.

She was married to G. R. Page, in Fort Worth, Thanksgiving Day, November 25, 1937, and since her marriage she and her husband had made their home in Fort Worth and Austin, Texas. He was with her during the days of illness and when death came. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, and was visiting with them when she took ill.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church Thursday at 3:30 P. M., with the pastor, Rev. H. E. East and a former pastor, Rev. J. Henry Littleton, of Anson, in charge. Interment was in Hamlin Cemetery, under the direction of the Barrow Company.

Relatives and friends coming for the funeral included, Mrs. A. H. Bryan of Graham, the mother of Paul Bryan, and also from Graham, were Mr. Pat Bryan and wife; Paul's sister, Mrs. J. C. McConnell and husband, and daughter, Miss Elayne of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brannon of Santo, and their daughter, Miss Marguerite of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Page of Olney and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Page of Houston and Robert Bryan of Dallas.

Many beautiful floral expressions of love and sympathy were in evidence, and especially arranged music contributed to the impressiveness at the funeral.

Coal Is A National Necessity

This nation has again passed thru another "Coal Crisis" (or is it thru the spasm yet?)

Possibly many people have not thought this thing through, clear through. It behooves everyone to think calmly in days of war. Days when the enemy wants to see division. The miners are now in a kind of "Armistice". No really loyal American can believe this is a time to squabble over mere dollars, and our hopes are that the miners will all go back to work and do what is absolutely necessary to help win the war...dig out that coal to the limit of their strength. But there are at least three or four angles to this Coal Question.

Somebody owns the mines (not the government)...and they want all the money they can squeeze out of the miners and the government.

Labor must dig coal from the dark bowels of the earth, and the more they are paid the more it will cost the users of the coal. The people and the government???????

The public, private or corporate parties must use coal to carry on life, and business...hence coal is a public necessity in a great part of this great America.

So we come to this conclusion: Anything in this nation that IS a public necessity, something that the nation has grown great upon, and must still have, WE think it should be owned, controlled and operated by the government. Then the miners could be paid more, the consumer pay less for the coal and nobody get rich.

Nearly everybody would like to take a pot-shot at John L. Lewis, the boss of the big CIO hundreds of thousands...coal miners...nearly all of us believe there is something wrong, somewhere, whether it started a hundred years ago or in recent years...it is plain that something is out of joint when 400,000 men can quit work and let a serious situation come upon the land right while our boys are facing all manner of hell and death on the battle field. We had similar trouble in the First World War. Nobody seemed to try to figure out a remedy, and so why be so surprised and so angry when the storm starts blowing. The miners are as much to blame as the rest of the people, that is their leaders are. Some of the miners do not know much, except to do as told to do. That's what makes a case like this dangerous. A bunch of perhaps foreign reared men, may not know anything but sign up and follow their leader, even if it took them to slavery. If another dispute over contracts should come in 40 years from now (if the situation is not changed) the same serious situation would prevail.

So there should be a "remedy" and the quicker the better. If our life or death depends upon COAL, then all the coal in the United States should be taken over by the government. This is true of any commodity. It is good common sense. It is safety. Did you ever hear of a strike in the Post Office Department

"Exploiters Not Wated"

(This is what somebody else says)

"The mining industry of the United States is so gigantic that it dwarfs imagination. Production of a ton of steel requires two tons of coal. In 1942, it required the coking of 75,000,000 tons of coal to smelt 60,000,000 tons of pig iron. An output of 70,000,000 tons of pig iron and 97,000,000 tons of steel ingots is expected in 1943.

"It takes 7 tons of copper for one minute of combat by 50 fighter planes, and this means from 200 to 700 tons of copper ore. Other metals are used in proportion.

"But coal is required to produce the heat to make most of them usable. It is the major source of energy in the United States. The railroads used 110,000,000 tons of coal in 1942; public utilities, 68,000,000 tons; and 135,000,000 tons went for necessary heating comfort.

"There is no excuse for continuous labor warfare in our coal mines. Neither the public nor the majority of the employers want to exploit the coal miners. The vice that has caused wars for centuries, namely, the greed of a few leaders for unreasonable power, is causing trouble in our coal mines. The few who would exploit a government, a mine of a group of workers for selfish purposes, are ones who cause the millions of ordinary citizens, including the miners themselves, unnecessary loss, grief and suffering."

(Statesmen of America, the coal scandal has gone on long enough. Let's do something about it...buy the mines...pay the so-called owners a reasonable sum over a lifetime period, and own 'em outright.)

Rosebud

Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mammy and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devil-child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mammy had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew, just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restful occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mammy was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mammy's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mammy and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mammy. "I declare you're an angel child," Mammy said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mammy was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mammy forgot about her until, coming in from the yard with her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Scolding the devil in her angel child, Mammy shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come here with that hammer! What you planning on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mammy," she said. "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

Feed proper minerals to hogs at all times. Market hogs make cheaper gains, brood sows raise more thrifty pigs, and healthier hogs are produced when minerals are used. By using a protein supplement, such as a mixture of equal parts of cottonseed, peanut, or soybean oil meal with tankage, or shrimp meal, farmers can grow out their pigs and fatten their hogs with about half as much corn or sweet potatoes as when these feeds are used alone.

Bugaboo of Soil Acidity Dispelled

Acid Condition May Even Be Beneficial

Soil acidity is a "bugaboo that farmers for years have been uselessly fighting," according to Dr. W. A. Albrecht, chairman of the soils department of the University of Missouri. As a matter of fact, acidity may actually be beneficial instead of harmful if proper soil conservation measures are used.

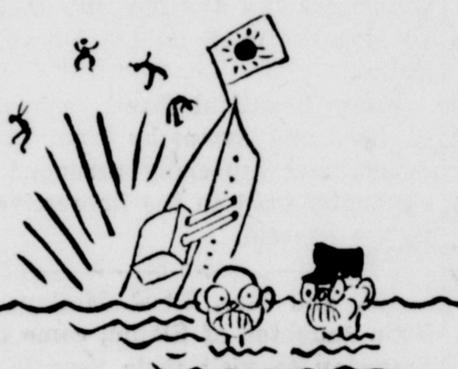

"It is not the acidity in soils that is injurious," Dr. Albrecht explained, "but the shortage of nutrients that are replaced by acidity. Given the proper fertility, plants will turn in their customary or usual performance even in the presence of soil acidity. This acid condition is merely a case of increased shortage of plant food nutrients for which crops suffer."

Dr. Albrecht cited experiments with soybeans in which increased soil acidity made both calcium and phosphorus actually more effective than in more neutral soil, improved the feeding value of forage and kept the sand element lower.

"Our experiments indicate that it is not necessary to fight soil acidity," he declared. "On the contrary, acidity is beneficial if lime or calcium, phosphorus, potash and other plant foods are utilized to restore full fertility and if soils are helped to maintain their needed stores of organic matter by means of sod crops or corresponding recuperative rest periods.

"We can now say that 'acid tolerant' legumes have been discovered. But they tolerate acidity only when fertilizer materials are properly supplied in balanced amounts."

In this connection it was pointed out that the three vital plant foods on which crops depend most are: 1—nitrogen, which encourages early and abundant growth, builds protein and develops the fleshy portion of roots; 2—phosphorus, which hastens the ripening of seed and promotes early maturity; and 3—potash, which is the balance wheel, enabling a crop to make better use of the other plant foods, develop resistance to disease and maintain an improved quality.

I understand the Americans are doing very well on the food front, too.

About Soldiers-- Sailors

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Cassle have received a letter from their son, H. O. Cassle, Jr., and it is another "gladsome" letter. H. O. entered the Navy over two years ago and has made a favorable impression. His rank was Storekeeper 2-C, an enlisted sailor. It is now Ensign H. O. Cassle Jr., a promotion directly up from the enlisted ranks to a commissioned officer. He also received his orders to report for training at the time his commission came. He will be sent to the University of Arizona, Tucson, May 15 for "indoorization schooling." Up to now he has been at Terminal Island, California. Congratulations, Ensign Cassle.

It does not take long to convert an "old bull-headed" Pied Piper into a bang up fighting Marine...that's the idea we get from Marine Bill Harbert...who sends a letter from that mysterious "somewhere". He can't tell much and some of what he does say is clipped out, or maybe it was a mosquito acting as censor. Bill says the mosquitoes are so large they pull the nets off the boys every night...and rain, gosh, it must rain down there (maybe that's where it's going) it makes cocoanuts grow and Bill's climbing them like a monkey. He says "Have a Christmas dinner ready; I'll be home by Christmas." Bill, we hope so, and also hope you get that bathing suit and candy (why want a bathing suit Bill?) This Marine hints that they and the Navy have it on the Army, saying, "You can send packages to the Marines and the Navy but not to the Army." Good luck Bill, we are sure it was a "skeeter" that cut holes in your letter.

will help increase the total food supply, is being overlooked. Even such a simple practice as giving a cow drinking water with the chill taken off of it on a cold winter's day can help boost milk production. The practice of milking three times a day instead of two, if generally followed and combined with feeding three times a day, for only a 90-day period, would increase production sufficiently to meet 1943 goals. In a recent feeding test with cows that had production records of around 9,300 pounds of milk a year, increases in the milk output as high as 23 per cent resulted from feeding more grain.

Systematic Tool Storage

Very Important on Farm

W. C. Krueger, extension agricultural engineer at Rutgers university, believes that every farm should have a work space or room especially reserved for repairing and constructing farm equipment.

At least a corner in some building should be set aside for the systematic storage of tools, repair parts and supplies.

"The storage of new machinery, increased use of labor-saving devices to offset the scarcity of farm help and the inability of local service men and dealers to take care of all reconditioning and repair work makes it highly desirable for every farm to be as self-sufficient as possible in this respect," the engineer says.

There are enough tools on most farms to do the ordinary repair jobs provided all of the tools are systematically collected, put into good shape, arranged, stored, and ready to use, Krueger points out. A necessary item is a solid topped work bench 2 to 2½ feet wide and between 5 and 10 feet long fitted with a four-inch or larger machinist vise and a wood vise or clamp.

The wall space above the bench is ideal for hanging tools. For a well-equipped shop these should include twist drills; auger bits; assorted sizes of machine, drift and center punches; a carpenter's hammer and both a light and heavy ball-peen hammer; an assortment of wood chisels; wrecking and crowbars; an eight to 12-pound sledge; anvil or heavy rail section for forging and straightening; a set of adjustable socket and pipe wrenches; a size range of screw drivers, pliers, pier cutters and pincers; an electric soldering iron or pair of soldering bits; a good grinder, preferably motor driven; flat, triangle and round files of assorted sizes, together with oil and emery stones. Block and tackle for hoists, jacks and pipe rollers will also be found handy.

Recapping Available

Owners of passenger cars and commercial vehicles using tires smaller than 7.50 by 20 will now be able to get casings recapped with reclaimed rubber camel back without applying to local war price and rationing boards for certificates. However, recapping of commercial vehicle tires with truck-type camel back, which contains a large proportion of crude rubber, continues subject to present rationing restrictions.

Agricultural Science Now Fully Mobilized

Science hitched to the plow is one of the main reasons for America's astonishing food productivity. Day by day the department of agriculture, in co-operation with state colleges of agriculture and experiment stations, is carrying the results of research into practical application on the nation's six million farms.

A task force, made up of some 9,000 county agents, home demonstration agents, 4-H club leaders and specialists takes the findings of science to the farmer. Practically every one of the country's 3,000 agricultural counties is served by a county agent of the agricultural extension service.

Food, food and still more food. That sums up the Food for Freedom program in 1943: 8 per cent more eggs, over 25 billion pounds of meat, 122 billion pounds of milk.

More Farm Machinery

Success in meeting farm production goals for 1943 will be dependent to a great extent upon getting the last possible ounce of help from machinery. Every piece of power farm equipment should be given a general overhauling to make certain it will be ready to operate when needed. Efforts also should be made to make community work schedules for tool which will not be used during the farms of the

With an appalling shortage of vital fats and oils, and Protein for Beef and Dairy Cattle, facing the Nation this year, we already have a man with the "know how" to MEET that need... the cotton farmer.

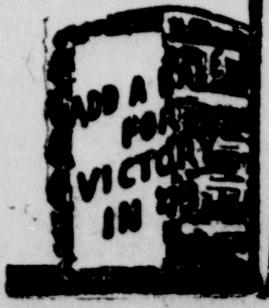

We have the land—the climate—the trained farmer, the mills and other needed facilities to get the job done.

Let's plant every acre legally permitted... produce every pound of cotton possible.

Let's grow an extra bale for Victory in 1943.

Nurse that heating plant along for it must do you for the duration. Metal . . . every bit we can rake and scrape up is going into War Production to provide the tools for our Boys on the fighting fronts.

But start saving now for that heating plant by your purchase of War Bonds every payday through a Payroll Savings plan. War spending goes on month after month. So War Savings must keep pace, month after month. Put at least ten percent of your income in War Savings through War Bonds.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Many of the women of the Women's Auxiliary Army Corps are already overseas serving in various capacities to help win the war. The WAACs go through a strenuous training to fit them for the arduous duties they must perform.

A uniform for a WAAC, complete, costs approximately $170.00. The quartermaster's department must provide thousands of them. Your purchase of War Bonds helps pay for these uniforms. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every payday through a Payroll Savings plan at your office or factory.

Rural Electrification has made great strides during the past ten years, bringing to thousands of farm homes the conveniences of their city brothers. Today, however, copper wiring, fixtures—all the materials which are required for rural electrification—are "out" for the duration.

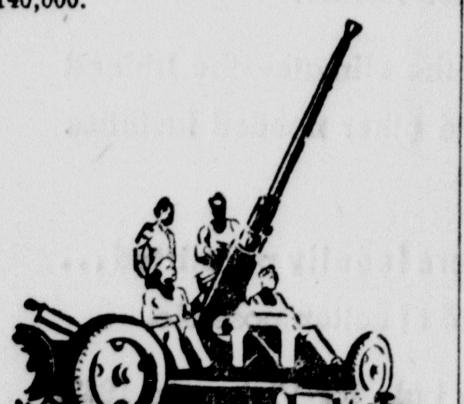

The farmers of the nation, however, can start now buying rural electrification and all the equipment which goes with it through purchase of War Bonds. Your War Bonds today will buy rural electrification tomorrow and give you back $4 for every $3 you invest.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Bofors anti-aircraft gun is designed for greater range and heavier calibre than the average anti-aircraft or rapid fire gun. They are mechanically intricate and more costly. The two-gun Bofors mount costs approximately $98,000 while a Bofors quad-mount runs up to $140,000.

We want our fighters to have the best equipment possible and your purchase of War Bonds will help pay for these guns, giving them an advantage over our enemies. Buy War Bonds every payday. At least ten percent of your income, or as much as you can buy will help pay the war cost, provide you with a nest egg for the future, and pay you good interest.

WOMEN AT WAR

Mom

"Sausages for breakfast! Sausages for breakfast! I can smell 'em!" Small Joe came tumbling downstairs fastening the belt of his shorts as he came. He made a bee-line for the kitchen. Pop was already sitting at the table, reading the paper, while Mom held the handle of the frying-pan over the stove. Small Joe came close and sniffed the delicious smoke, wriggling all over with early-morning joy.

"Better be thankful for them while you can still get them." One glance at Mom's face told small Joe this was one of her tight-lipped days. "Not a drop of coffee in the house, and no sugar left to put in it if there was. Some war!" Small Joe kept still.

"Letter for you, son," Pop said in his quiet voice. Small Joe made a leap for his place at table. There it was, a private personal letter for him alone, propped against his milk glass.

"Hey, Pop! It's from brother!" Small Joe was pulling the envelope apart and diving into the contents. "Hey, look what he sent me." He passed over an oblong of thick, crinkly paper while he leaned over the sheet of writing-paper.

"A twenty-five dollar War Bond," Pop said slowly. Mom turned and looked at it over Pop's shoulder, with the frying-pan in her hand.

"Listen what he says. How are you doing, kid? Hurry and grow up so you can help me slap the Japs. Aren't you most big enough to get into the Army? Here's something for you in your name. Let's the whole family gang up and help to win this war."

Pop and Mom were silent. But small Joe didn't notice that. He was full of his letter and his War Bond.

"Gee, Pop, in six years I could get into the Army, couldn't I, Pop?"

"Gee, Pop, I want to be a soldier like brother and fight in this war. Gee, isn't that bond nifty? Look, it was issued in Honolulu. It's mine."

But Pop was looking at Mom and Mom was looking at Pop. There were tears in Mom's eyes. She shook her head sharply. Pop reached out and patted her hand gently.

"Well, can't let our soldier boy beat us to buying War Bonds, can we, old lady?" was all he said.

She shook her head again. "I guess if he can give up his job and . . . and go off to war I can do some fighting back at home," she said in a queer voice. Small Joe looked up at her in surprise. She saw him looking at her and spoke sharply.

"Well, Joe. We're about ready to eat. Say grace."

Small Joe folded his hands and bent his head as he had been taught.

"Oh Lord, we thank thee for this food and all thy bountiful gifts . . ."

"Amen," Pop said.

"Amen," Mom said. "Now eat your good sausages."

(Story from an actual report in the files of the Treasury Department.)

Amen: Say yes. Take your change in War Stamps. The least you can do is the most you can buy in War Bonds.

PRUNES

All prunes are plums but not all plums are prunes. Washington and Oregon grow an Italian variety while California produces the French prune. These are distinguished from other plums in that they will not ferment when dried without removing the pit.

At the University of California oil has been crushed from pits of prunes which is rich in vitamins, reddish in color, with a pleasant aroma and taste. It will likely be used for spraying prunes to aid them to retain their moisture so that they will be juicier when they reach the consumer. The canning of prune juice is a growing industry since the competition of fresh fruits and juices has curtailed the dried prune market.

Prunes, grown almost entirely on the Pacific coast, now exceed the amount produced in foreign countries. It was not until 1870 that the first commercial orchard was planted in California and the growth of this industry has been rapid.

In California, the plums are dried for six to ten days by the sun. In Oregon and Washington, they are cured 12 to 48 hours in evaporators. After drying, they are put into bins to "sweat," then they are graded and packed. Sizes range from 20 to 30 in a pound up to 100 to 120.

Pasturing Cows for First Time in Spring

Sudden Change in Diet May Lower Milk Output

Although luscious, green grass is one of the best dairy feeds, milk production may drop when cows are first turned out to pasture unless special care is taken to prevent it, says W. B. Nevens, professor of dairy cattle feeding, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

It is best not to turn cows to pasture for the first day until after they have been well fed in the barn, and then to limit the number of hours at pasture for the first two or three days. A sudden change from the feeding of hay, silage and grain mixture to pasture feeding only may cause a sudden drop in milk flow and digestive disturbances.

Fresh, green grass is so palatable in early spring that cows will fill up on it if given the opportunity, but, because of the high water content of the grass, they fail to receive enough nutrients from grass alone to maintain high milk production.

A grain mixture should be fed to higher-producing cows throughout the pasture season, Nevens points out. Holsteins, Swiss and Ayrshires need about one pound of grain mixture for each three pounds of milk produced over and above 30 pounds daily, while Jerseys and Guernseys need about one pound of grain mixture for each 2.5 pounds of milk a day over and above 20 pounds daily.

If cows do not care for grain mixture when pastures are luxuriant, it may prove advantageous to take them from pasture one or two hours before feeding time so that they will consume the mixture more readily. The use of 1½ to 2 per cent of salt in the grain mixture is also helpful.

As soon as pasture grasses begin to ripen or become scanty in amount, the rate of feeding may need to be increased.

It may not be a zoot suit but it's the style for smart high school students this season.

Agriculture in Industry

By FLORENCE C. WEED

SHEEP

One industry where there is never a surplus is wool-growing. The United States has 472,000 wool producers and 46,000,000 sheep, yet 40 per cent of the nation's requirements must be imported. Two-thirds of our output comes from the Rocky mountain and West coast states.

Chief producers are Texas, California, Wyoming, Montana, South Dakota and Ohio. We also produce each year, about 350,000,000 pounds of shorn wool and 60,000,000 pounds of pulled wool from slaughtered sheep.

After the fleece is removed from slaughtered sheep, the slat goes into glove leather, lining for shoes, sweat bands for hats, and college diplomas. The wool grease or Lanolin is used as a basis for medicinal ointments.

Sheep fat has wide uses in tallow, soap, stearine or oleo oil. As glycerine, it goes into anti-freeze liquids and finds uses in paints, cellophane, cosmetics and bases for polish. Blood is used in serums, medicines, weather-proof glue and animal feed and as a retardant for plaster.

It requires the glands of 100,000 lambs to make one pound of adrenalin, the powerful heart stimulant which has been known to cause a heart once stopped to resume its beating. Sheep intestines become strings for violins, cellos, harps and ukuleles and many other musical instruments. They are much used for surgical ligatures to tie blood vessels and sew wounds during operations.

They are much favored because nature absorbs them while the wound is healing. The best quality of casings can be used for strings for tennis rackets.

Farm Notes

Agricultural insecticides and fungicides will be available in sufficient quantities this year for all farm and urban victory gardens.

The churning of sour cream is easier than the churning of sweet cream. You can sour, or ripen cream by keeping it at a temperature of about 70 degrees the day before churning.

POT SHOTS FROM McCaulley

BY GEO. DARDEN

Mrs. J. P. Humphries is seriously ill and at this writing is in a Sweetwater hospital.

Miss Bobbie Martin, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Martin, is visiting this week with her grandparents. Her home is in Abilene.

C. E. Dick Jr., a Hardin-Simmons student, visited last week end with his parents in McCaulley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gist and son are visiting for a few days with relatives in this vicinity. The Gists plan to move to California in the near future.

One of the best shows of the season was the amateur contest at the school house last Thursday night—sponsored by the Senior class.

Mrs. J. H. Mustain is in Houston visiting with her son and family. Mrs. Mustain plans to spend the summer in that city.

The folks in this vicinity are wishing for a rain, but there is no use to get excited about the weather. There is plenty of time to make a crop. It's only natural for people to count their chickens before they hatch.

Reports on sick folks in this community: Mrs. J. P. Humphries is reported some better. Mr. Geo. Clark is improving. Mrs. S. E. Miers still confined to her bed. Mr. J. H. Mil-sap improving. Frank Maberry is able to be up.

A week or ten days ago the Baptist pastor had a car wreck that demolished his car. Well you know a preacher is up against a proposition when he doesn't have a car or even a burro to ride. Well any way, the preacher managed to get a new car by paying a down payment. Now it is up to the preacher to meet the payments or else drive it a few weeks and let the finance company have it back. We all know that a preacher has to visit the sick and conduct funerals and a million other jobs in the line of duty and confidentially we imagine that there are a few fellows who would like to help out on the preacher's new car and in fact, Mr. O. R. Burnham started the ball to rolling when he handed the preacher $25.00 on his car, and mind you, it was unsolicited. Now the pastor doesn't know that I write about all this, yet by this time most all of the folks know this to be a gossip sheet. Any way, if any of you fellows believe deep down in your hearts that a preacher is due a car and if the service he renders is worth anything to the community, then this scribe will take your five or ten dollar bill and see that the finance company gets it.

COMMENT NO. 1. The coal strike is so alarming and down right disgusting that even friends of organized labor are beginning to wonder just which is the lesser of the two great evils, John L. Lewis or Adolf Hitler.

The press of the Japanese Empire is delighted over the fact the miners' strike is causing a tie up on the production lines of the United States.

A strike against the government of the United States is nothing short of treason. Just because John L. Lewis has a personal grudge against the New Deal is no reason for our boys of the armed forces to suffer from lack of vital war weapons. The bushy brow leader of the C. I. O. is playing into the hands of our enemies, whether he knows it or not. The axis nations are jubilant over the coal miners strike but a wave of resentment is sweeping this country and the citizenship of these United States will not tolerate for long any one man or group of men who play into the hands of Tojo and Hitler.

COMMENT NO. 2. The sincere appeal by Franklin D. Roosevelt to the coal miners last Sunday night was such a stirring address that even the hard hearted isolationists group should break down and admit that they have been wrong in their criticism of the president in the past.

If there was a spark of patriotism in any man who heard the president, surely it had to come out after listening to such common sense and patriotic appeal. Walter Winchell concluded his broadcast Sunday night with these words: "When we all bury more feeds, we will bury fewer soldiers."

That's something to think about, neighbor.

NUMBER 27

Hamlin's War Bond Drive Ended Saturday, $169,975

In the years to come, readers of the Hamlin Herald will note that in the good year of 1943, when the American people were striving to retain their freedom and help other nations recover from the ravages of International Desperadoes, the people of little Hamlin rallied to the call of duty and purchased $169,975 worth of War Bonds. We say, congratulations, Hamlin.

Where did all that money come from, you ask? The greater part came from the deposits of the mass of small income people, at least that is what most of us want to think. Persons who, from purely patriotic motives, lend their money to the government in such a time of national danger, are the ones who make the bulwark of this nation's strength. So the grand sum of nearly ONE HUNDRED SEVENTY THOUSAND dollars goes to swell the greatest war loan any nation has ever received. The whole nation is to be congratulated, and yet, it has not done its best. Maybe it will never be necessary for our 135 millions of people to do their best. So magnificent a job the United States is doing it sounds to other nations that there is no limit to our capacities. If there are limits, nobody has ever seen them. So the War Bond Drive closes, again, and as the days pass, other purchases will continue, for there can be no better investment than in securities of our national government. A bond is as good as our paper money, or silver or gold.

We do not believe our boys on the foreign battle fronts ever had any uneasiness about how the folks back home would support the government. Also we do not believe they stopped a second to wonder how the coal miners' strike was to come out. They have heard domestic rumblings and some way, some how, our country has always found sensible ears and responding hearts for every call. It is quite possible that many of the soldiers would like to kick a striker in the pants for listening to John L. Lewis, instead of President Roosevelt; and maybe some of them are like their Dads, would like to take a whack at some slackers on the side lines of the struggle. Maybe.

The success of the Second War Bond Drive gives everyone deeper confidence in the ultimate outcome of this war. It means much to the fighting men. It means that on every field of battle our men will go forward, unless outnumbered in men and equipment.

Mrs. Pauline Bryan
Page Died Stamford
Hospital Wednesday

Mrs. Pauline Reaves Page, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bryan, who had been in a very serious condition in the Stamford Sanitarium the past thirty days, passed away at 12:40 P. M. Wednesday, May 5th.

The people of Hamlin speak of her as Pauline Bryan, a young lady who came to Hamlin with her parents from Santo, Texas, at the age of eight years, and grew to full womanhood here. She was born at Santo, April 21, 1912, and was 31 years and 14 days of age.

Mrs. Page was a graduate of the Hamlin High school, and later attended the school of nursing in the Stamford Sanitarium, and a Fort Worth school of nursing. She was converted and joined the First Baptist church of Hamlin in her early life. She was married to G. R. Page, in Fort Worth, Thanksgiving Day, November 25, 1937, and since her marriage she and her husband had made their home in Fort Worth and Austin, Texas. He was with her during the days of illness and when death came. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan, and was visiting with them when she took ill.

Funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church Thursday at 3:30 P. M., with the pastor, Rev. H. E. East and a former pastor, Rev. J. Henry Littleton, of Anson, in charge. Interment was in Hamlin Cemetery, under the direction of the Barrow Company.

Relatives and friends coming for the funeral included, Mrs. A. H. Bryan of Graham, the mother of Paul Bryan, and also from Graham, were Mr. Pat Bryan and wife; Paul's sister, Mrs. J. C. McConnell and husband, and daughter, Miss Elayne of Austin; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Brannon of Santo, and their daughter, Miss Marguerite of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Page of Olney and Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Page of Houston and Robert Bryan of Dallas.

Many beautiful floral expressions of love and sympathy were in evidence, and especially arranged music contributed to the impressiveness at the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Etsel McCoy and little daughter of Slaton, came down Saturday to visit their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bailey.

Little Lorene Matecha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Matecha has been very ill with pneumonia in the Stamford hospital the past week. She was able to come home Monday and should be back in school soon.

The Woman's Literary Club closed

"Thankful For A Rain Or A Calf Anytime"

(What you read below is one of Boyce House's "nuggets" picked up while brousing around over the Ranches of Texas. Thank you Boyce. You give us bits of Texas.)

Shine Phillips of Big Spring, druggist-author of the humorous and successful book, "Big Spring," sends one of the letterheads of George McIntire of Sterling City. It reads:

"U Ranch—established in 1876 by D. H. Earnest and W. J. Holland. Weather forecast by Uncle Bill Kellis:

"Today, fair, dry and windy. Tomorrow, fair, windy and drier. Sunday will be a clear, dry day. All the rest of the week will be like Sunday, only little drier, dustier, sandier, windier. There won't be any rain to speak of during the entire week."

And the ranch motto is: "Thankful for a rain or a calf any time."

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Mopps of San Diego came in Monday to visit their mother, Mrs. Beuna Holland. This couple works for the Consolidated Airplane factory and will have only a short visit.

Mrs. W. D. Cooper returned last week from a visit in Dallas, Waco and McGregor.

Started in 1930, the Texas Cowboy Reunion has become famed the country over as the World's Largest Cowboy Roundup. It is open only to amateurs and last year more than 300 cowhands, from all sections of the Southwest, competed for the various prizes. Had the Reunion been held this year, it would have been the fourteenth annual performance.

Each year has shown a decided increase in contestants and growing gate receipts have told how well the public likes the celebration.

Directors of the Texas Cowboy Reunion Association, an organization separate and apart from the Texas Cowboy Reunion, is considering the advisability of having a reunion among members only, according to C. E. Coombes, secretary-treasurer. "If a way can be found to feed the group without violating food regulations, the meeting will probably be scheduled," Judge Coombes said.

The Association is composed of old-time ranch hands who served at least 35 years ago as cowboys on a ranch. Their annual meetings are held on the same dates as the Texas Cowboy Reunion. This organization owns the beautiful Will Rogers Bunkhouse, headquarters for Association members during their meetings, and the Coombes Round-up Hall, scene of colorful square dances during the Reunion.

Kurt raised his right hand on April 24 and swore allegiance to the United States of America. It has been seven years since this young fellow came from Germany. He has been in Hamlin six years, and has had the process of making himself a citizen under way for some time. He was greatly pleased with the talk given to the 26 new citizens by Judge Davidson.

THIS WEEK

A LITTLE BIT ABOUT

This

AND A LITTLE BIT OF

This week the Hamlin Rural Carriers are starting their rounds from the office at 10:30. This becomes necessary to enable the incoming letter mail to reach the rural homes the same day it arrives. This will enable most homes to get letters from their sons quicker. This will likely prevail till, maybe six months after the war. Anything that will help the home folks hear from their soldiers-sailors-WAACS and others is what all of us want.

This week started off with a most wonderful talk by President Roosevelt on the subject of Coal Miners, Coal and the War Effort. It was a pleading talk, an humble urge for the men to get in there and do what nobody else can do in this year of struggle...have heard but little reaction, no criticism from anyone, on the President for this one more heart-to-heart talk to the nation....Ye writer is one person who does not think our President is a kind of god, but on the other hand we do not hesitate to say this nation has a man as president who is carrying a mighty load and we are for helping him by standing up for whatever direction he calls to follow....don't get scared...Roosevelt is not wanting to set up anything but freedom under the powers of the Constitution....the war will be won and things will get back to normal, and that will mean the renewal of the struggle of politicians for power, for big finance to get more control of things, for millions of individuals to lapse back into indifference as to what is happening....O no, the Democratic Party will not control always, there will be a "turn-about".

This week finds our armed forces pushing the enemy back on all fronts, especially in Tunisia.....there the final push-out will take place not later than the last week in May (our idea). England and the United States are planning for a kill, the like of which Germany and Italy has never witnessed before....just what most of us thought would happen after what they did to France and Dunkirk.

This week finds the West Texas Victory Gardens sagging from unusual heat, no rains but plenty of high rough winds. If rains don't hurry up and come there'll be a defeat. Fishing has been on the minds of many Hamlin people since May 1. Hamlin has two mighty good fish lakes, which once were our main source of water. They cost a lot of money too. But we've got plenty of water now and so there's fishing....this Wednesday an old timer wanted us to drop this suggestion: That the City grant annual fishing permits to all men and women in Hamlin community over 65 years of age.....as it is now, they must pay 50c per day or $5.00 per year....What do you think?

A True Fish Story

Early Thursday morning a knock on the Editor's door, and we found three proverbial fishermen out there, looking quite fishy. The three fishermen were M. L. Haught, John Bean and G. P. Wright, who had been down on the Clear Fork of the Brazos about Lueders, fishing all night." They evidently let the net or trot line down on the right side, for they had one blue cat fish weighing 6 pounds, another blue cat, 10 pounds

Coal Is A National Necessity

This nation has again passed thru another "Coal Crisis" (or is it thru the spasm yet?)

Possibly many people have not thought this thing through, clear through. It behoves everyone to think calmly in days of war. Days when the enemy wants to see division. The miners are now in a kind of "Armistice". No really loyal American can believe this is a time to squabble over mere dollars, and our hopes are that the miners will all go back to work and do what is absolutely necessary to help win the war...dig out that coal to the limit of their strength. But there are at least three or four angles to this Coal Question.

Somebody owns the mines (not the government)...and they want all the money they can squeeze out of the miners and the government.

Labor must dig coal from the dark bowels of the earth, and the more they are paid the more it will cost the users of the coal. The people and the government???????

The public, private or corporate parties must use coal to carry on life, and business...hence coal is a public necessity in a great part of this great America.

So we come to this conclusion: Anything in this nation that IS a public necessity, something that the nation has grown great upon, and must still have, WE think it should be owned, controlled and operated by the government. Then the miners could be paid more, the consumer pay less for the coal and nobody get rich.

Nearly everybody would like to take a pot-shot at John L. Lewis, the boss of the big CIO hundreds of thousands...coal miners...nearly all of us believe there is something wrong, somewhere, whether it started a hundred years ago or in recent years...it is plain that something is out of joint when 400,000 men can quit work and let a serious situation

(This is what somebody else says)

"The mining industry of the United States is so gigantic that it dwarfs imagination. Production of a ton of steel requires two tons of coal. In 1942, it required the coking of 75,000,000 tons of coal to smelt 60,000,000 tons of pig iron. An output of 70,000,000 tons of pig iron and 97,000,000 tons of steel ingots is expected in 1943.

"It takes 7 tons of copper for one minute of combat by 50 fighter planes, and this means from 200 to 700 tons of copper ore. Other metals are used in proportion.

"But coal is required to produce the heat to make most of them usable. It is the major source of energy in the United States. The railroads used 110,000,000 tons of coal in 1942; public utilities, 68,000,000 tons; and 135,000,000 tons went for necessary heating comfort.

"There is no excuse for continuous labor warfare in our coal mines. Neither the public nor the majority of the employers want to exploit the coal miners. The vice that has caused wars for centuries, namely, the greed of a few leaders for unreasonable power, is causing trouble in our coal mines. The few who would exploit a government, a mine of a group of workers for selfish purposes, are ones who cause the millions of ordinary citizens, including the miners themselves, unnecessary loss, grief and suffering."

(Statesmen of America, the coal scandal has gone on long enough. Let's do something about it...buy the mines...pay the so-called owners a reasonable sum over a lifetime period, and own 'em outright.)

Rosebud

Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mammy and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devilish days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mammy had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew, just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restful occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mammy was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mammy's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mammy and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Bunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mammy. "I declare you're an angel child," Mammy said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one of another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mammy was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mammy forgot about her until, coming in from the yard with her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Scolding the devil in her angel child, Mammy shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come here with that hammer! What you planning on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mammy," she said. "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

Bugaboo of Soil Acidity Dispelled

Acid Condition May Even Be Beneficial

Soil acidity is a "bugaboo that farmers for years have been uselessly fighting," according to Dr. W. A. Albrecht, chairman of the soils department of the University of Missouri. As a matter of fact, acidity may actually be beneficial instead of harmful if proper soil conservation measures are used.

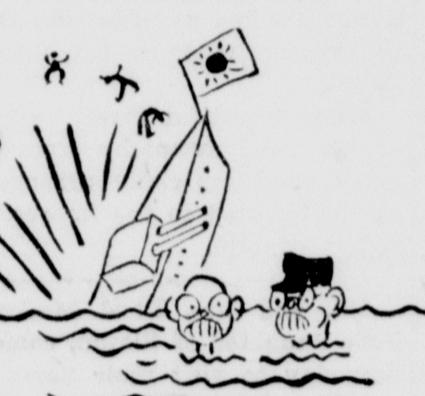

"It is not the acidity in soils that is injurious," Dr. Albrecht explained, "but the shortage of nutrients that are replaced by acidity. Given the proper fertility, plants will turn in their customary or usual performance even in the presence of soil acidity. This acid condition is merely a case of increased shortage of plant food nutrients for which crops suffer."

Dr. Albrecht cited experiments with soybeans in which increased soil acidity made both calcium and phosphorus actually more effective than in more neutral soil, improved the feeding value of forage and kept the sand element lower.

"Our experiments indicate that it is no longer necessary to fight soil acidity," he declared. "On the contrary, acidity is beneficial if lime or calcium, phosphorus, potash and other plant foods are utilized to restore full fertility and if soils are helped to maintain their needed stores of organic matter by means of sod crops or corresponding recuperative rest periods.

"We can now say that 'acid tolerant' legumes have been discovered. But they tolerate acidity only when fertilizer materials are properly supplied in balanced amounts."

In this connection it was pointed out that the three vital plant foods on which crops depend most are: 1-nitrogen, which encourages early and abundant growth, builds protein and develops the fleshy portion of roots; 2-phosphorus, which hastens the ripening of seed and promotes early maturity; and 3-potash, which is the balance wheel, enabling a crop to make better use of the other plant foods, develop resistance to disease and maintain an improved quality.

I understand the Americans are doing very well on the food front, too.

Minerals for Hogs

Feed proper minerals to hogs at all times. Market hogs make cheaper gains, brood sows raise more thrifty pigs, and healthier hogs are produced when minerals are used. By using a protein supplement, such as a mixture of equal parts of cottonseed, peanut, or soybean oil meal with tankage, or shrimp meal, farmers can grow out their pigs and fatten their hogs with about half as much corn or sweet potatoes as when these feeds are used alone.

Agricultural Science Now Fully Mobilized

Science hitched to the plow is one of the main reasons for America's astonishing food productivity. Day by day the department of agriculture, in co-operation with state colleges of agriculture and experiment stations, is carrying the results of research into practical application on the nation's six million farms.

A task force, made up of some 9,000 county agents, home demonstration agents, 4-H club leaders and specialists takes the findings of science to the farmer. Practically every one of the country's 3,000 agricultural counties is served by a county agent of the agricultural extension service.

Food, food and still more food.
That sums up the Food for Freedom program in 1943: 8 per cent more eggs, over 25 billion pounds of meat, 122 billion pounds of milk.

No technique making for more efficient farming, or scientific fact that will help increase the total food supply, is being overlooked. Even such a simple practice as giving a cow drinking water with the chill taken off of it on a cold winter's day can help boost milk production. The practice of milking three times a day instead of two, if generally followed and combined with feeding three times a day, for only a 90-day period, would increase production sufficiently to meet 1943 goals. In a recent feeding test with cows that had production records of around 9,300 pounds of milk a year, increases in the milk output as high as 23 per cent resulted from feeding more grain.

Systematic Tool Storage

Very Important on Farm

W. C. Krueger, extension agricultural engineer at Rutgers university, believes that every farm should have a work space or room especially reserved for repairing and constructing farm equipment.

At least a corner in some building should be set aside for the systematic storage of tools, repair parts and supplies.

"The storage of new machinery, increased use of labor-saving devices to offset the scarcity of farm help and the inability of local service men and dealers to take care of all reconditioning and repair work makes it highly desirable for every farm to be as self-sufficient as possible in this respect," the engineer says.

There are enough tools on most farms to do the ordinary repair jobs provided all of the tools are systematically collected, put into good shape, arranged, stored, and handy to use, Krueger points out. A necessary item is a solid topped work bench 2 to 2½ feet wide and between 5 and 10 feet long fitted with a four-inch or larger machinist vise and a wood vise or clamp.

The wall space above the bench is ideal for hanging tools. For a well-equipped shop these should include twist drills; auger bits; assorted sizes of machine, drift and center punches; a carpenter's hammer and both a light and heavy ball-peen hammer; an assortment of wood chisels; wrecking and crowbars; an eight to 12-pound sledge; anvil or heavy rail section for forging and straightening; a set of adjustable socket and pipe wrenches; a size range of screw drivers, pliers, pier cutters and pincers; an electric soldering iron or pair of soldering bits; a good grinder, preferably motor driven; flat, triangle and round files of assorted sizes, together with oil and emery stones. Block and tackle for hoists, jacks and pipe rollers will also be found handy.

Recapping Available

Owners of passenger cars and commercial vehicles using tires smaller than 7.50 by 20 will now be able to get casings recapped with reclaimed rubber camel back without applying to local war price and rationing boards for certificates. However, recapping of commercial vehicle tires with truck-type camel back, which contains a large proportion of crude rubber, continues subject to present rationing restrictions.

WOMEN AT WAR

Mom

"Sausages for breakfast! Sausages for breakfast! I can smell 'em!" Small Joe came tumbling downstairs fastening the belt of his shorts as he came. He made a bee-line for the kitchen. Pop was already sitting at the table, reading the paper, while Mom held the handle of the frying-pan over the stove. Small Joe came close and sniffed the delicious smoke, wriggling all over with early-morning joy.

"Better be thankful for them while you can still get them." One glance at Mom's face told small Joe this was one of her tight-lipped days. "Not a drop of coffee in the house, and no sugar left to put in it if there was. Some war!" Small Joe kept still.

"Letter for you, son," Pop said in his quiet voice. Small Joe made a leap for his place at table. There it was, a private personal letter for him alone, propped against his milk glass.

"Hey, Pop! It's from brother!" Small Joe was pulling the envelope apart and diving into the contents. "Hey, look what he sent me." He passed over an oblong of thick, crinkly paper while he leaned over the sheet of writing-paper.

"A twenty-five dollar War Bond," Pop said slowly. Mom turned and looked at it over Pop's shoulder, with the frying-pan in her hand.

"Listen what he says. 'How are you doing, kid? Hurry and grow up so you can help me slap the Japs. Aren't you most big enough to get into the Army? Here's something for you in your name. Let's the whole family gang up and help to win this war.'

Pop and Mom were silent. But small Joe didn't notice that. He was full of his letter and his War Bond.

"Gee, Pop, in six years I could get into the Army, couldn't I. Pop? Gee, Pop, I want to be a soldier like brother and fight in this war. Gee, isn't that bond nifty? Look, it was issued in Honolulu. It's mine."

But Pop was looking at Mom and Mom was looking at Pop. There were tears in Mom's eyes. She shook her head sharply. Pop reached out and patted her hand gently.

"Well, can't let our soldier boy beat us to buying War Bonds, can we, old lady?" was all he said.

She shook her head again. "I guess if he can give up his job and . . . and go off to war I can do some fighting back at home," she said in a queer voice. Small Joe looked up at her in surprise. She saw him looking at her and spoke sharply. "Well, Joe. We're about ready to eat. Say grace."

Small Joe folded his hands and bent his head as he had been taught. "Oh Lord, we thank thee for this food and all thy bountiful gifts . . ."

"Amen," Pop said.

"Amen," Mom said. "Now eat your good sausages."

PRUNES

All prunes are plums but not all plums are prunes. Washington and Oregon grow an Italian variety while California produces the French prune. These are distinguished from other plums in that they will not ferment when dried without removing the pit.

At the University of California oil has been crushed from pits of prunes which is rich in vitamins, reddish in color, with a pleasant aroma and taste. It will likely be used for spraying prunes to aid them to retain their moisture so that they will be juicier when they reach the consumer. The canning of prune juice is a growing industry since the competition of fresh fruits and juices has curtailed the dried prune market.

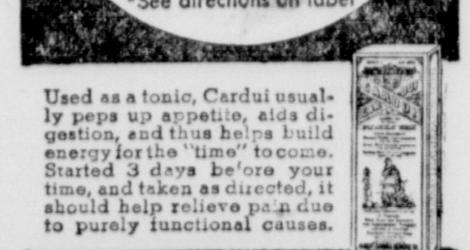

Prunes, grown almost entirely on the Pacific coast, now exceed the amount produced in foreign countries. It was not until 1870 that the first commercial orchard was planted in California and the growth of this industry has been rapid.

In California, the plums are dried for six to ten days by the sun. In Oregon and Washington, they are cured 12 to 48 hours in evaporators. After drying, they are put into bins to "sweat," then they are graded and packed. Sizes range from 20 to 30 in a pound up to 100 to 120.

Pasturing Cows for First Time in Spring

Sudden Change in Diet May Lower Milk Output

Although luscious, green grass is one of the best dairy feeds, milk production may drop when cows are first turned out to pasture unless special care is taken to prevent it, says W. B. Nevens, professor of dairy cattle feeding, University of Illinois college of agriculture.

It is best not to turn cows to pasture for the first day until after they have been well fed in the barn, and then to limit the number of hours at pasture for the first two or three days. A sudden change from the feeding of hay, silage and grain mixture to pasture feeding only may cause a sudden drop in milk flow and digestive disturbances.

Fresh, green grass is so palatable in early spring that cows will fill up on it if given the opportunity, but, because of the high water content of the grass, they fail to receive enough nutrients from grass alone to maintain high milk production.

A grain mixture should be fed to higher-producing cows throughout the pasture season, Nevens points out. Holsteins, Swiss and Ayrshires need about one pound of grain mixture for each three pounds of milk produced over and above 30 pounds daily, while Jerseys and Guernseys need about one pound of grain mixture for each 2.5 pounds of milk a day over and above 20 pounds daily.

If cows do not care for grain mixture when pastures are luxuriant, it may prove advantageous to take them from pasture one or two hours before feeding time so that they will consume the mixture more readily. The use of 1½ to 2 per cent of salt in the grain mixture is also helpful.

As soon as pasture grasses begin to ripen or become scanty in amount, the rate of feeding may need to be increased.

It may not be a zoot suit but it is the style for smart high school students this season.

Agriculture in Industry

By FLORENCE C. WEED

SHEEP

One industry where there is never a surplus is wool-growing. The United States has 472,000 wool producers and 46,000,000 sheep, yet 40 per cent of the nation's requirements must be imported. Two-thirds of our output comes from the Rocky mountain and West coast states. Chief producers are Texas, California, Wyoming, Montana, South Dakota and Ohio. We also produce each year, about 350,000,000 pounds of shorn wool and 60,000,000 pounds of pulled wool from slaughtered sheep.

After the fleece is removed from slaughtered sheep, the skin goes into glove leather, lining for shoes, sweat bands for hats, and college diplomas. The wool grease or Lanolin is used as a basis for medicinal ointments.

Sheep fat has wide uses in tallow, soap, stearine or oleo oil. As glycerine, it goes into anti-freeze liquids and finds uses in paints, cellophane, cosmetics and bases for polish. Blood is used in serums, medicines, weather-proof glue and animal feed and as a retardant for plaster.

It requires the glands of 100,000 lambs to make one pound of adrenaline, the powerful heart stimulant which has been known to cause a heart once stopped to resume its beating. Sheep intestines become strings for violins, cellos, harps and ukuleles and many other musical instruments. They are much used for surgical ligatures to tie blood vessels and sew wounds during operations. They are much favored because nature absorbs them while the wound is healing. The best quality of casings can be used for strings for tennis rackets.

Farm Notes

Agricultural insecticides and fungicides will be available in sufficient quantities this year for all farm and urban victory gardens.

The churning of sour cream is easier than the churning of sweet cream. You can sour, or ripen cream by keeping it at a temperature of about 70 degrees the day before churning.

Miss Ozzie Folkes, Co. H. D. Agent, gave a demonstration on Meat Stretchers, by making a meat pie. "Meat is a great food weapon in this war, and there are many ways of sharing. One is to get acquainted with the variety of meats, and another is to adjust your meal planning, and most of all, make use of all you get."

By spreading meat flavors, try using cereals, bread, vegetables and sautes as meat extenders. There could be a loaf, patties, stews and meat pies.

The unrestricted meats, liver and hearts and tongue, can be used also in many ways. Try frying liver at a moderate heat, just enough to change color to a very delicate brown. Heart simmered slowly until done and served with onion gravy makes a palatable supper dish. Brains to be appetizing should be parboiled in water, salt, drain, dip in egg and milk mixture, then in bread crumbs, fry in butter or substitute.

Alternate dishes, cheese, eggs, dried peas and beans, peanuts, peanut butter and soy beans.

when he doesn't have a car or even a burro to ride. Well any way, the preacher managed to get a new car by paying a down payment. Now it is up to the preacher to meet the payments or else drive it a few weeks and let the finance company have it back. We all know that a preacher has to visit the sick and conduct funerals and a million other jobs in the line of duty and confidentially we imagine that there are a few fellows who would like to help out on the preacher's new car and in fact, Mr. O. R. Burnham started the ball to rolling when he handed the preacher $25.00 on his car, and mind you, it was unsolicited. Now the pastor doesn't know that I write about all this, yet by this time most all of the folks know this to be a gossip sheet. Any way, if any of you fellows believe deep down in your hearts that a preacher is due a car and if the service he renders is worth anything to the community, then this scribe will take your five or ten dollar bill and see that the finance company gets it.

COMMENT NO. 1. The coal strike is so alarming and down right disgusting that even friends of organized labor are beginning to wonder just which is the lesser of the two great evils, John L. Lewis or Adolph Hitler.

The press of the Japanese Empire is delighted over the fact the miners' strike is causing a tie up on the production lines of the United States.

A strike against the government of the United States is nothing short of treason. Just because John L. Lewis has a personal grudge against the New Deal is no reason for our boys of the armed forces to suffer from lack of vital war weapons. The bushy brow leader of the C. I. O. is playing into the hands of our enemies, whether he knows it or not. The axis nations are jubilant over the coal miners strike but a wave of resentment is sweeping this country and the citizenship of these United States will not tolerate for long any one man or group of men who play into the hands of Tojo and Hitler.

COMMENT NO. 2. The sincere appeal by Franklin D. Roosevelt to the coal miners last Sunday night was such a stirring address that even the hard hearted isolationists group should break down and admit that they have been wrong in their criticism of the president in the past.

If there was a spark of patriotism in any man who heard the president, surely it had to come out after listening to such common sense and patriotic appeal. Walter Winchell concluded his broadcast Sunday night with these words: "When we all bury more feuds, we will bury fewer soldiers."

That's something to think about, neighbor.
